Shapes & Shadows 2021

I have spent many years being a Plein Air painter, but this past year has meant a lot more time staying closer to home and the studio, so my studio practice is becoming more important to me.

We did have a week away to the North West of New South Wales and I was particularly taken with the Pilliga Forest area. We went as always, in the Kombi, with 4 dogs in tow and I took gouache paints and drawing materials. The colours were amazing. A very different palette to the colours near my home in Lidsdale.

There is something very special about starting a painting or creating a body of studies from the landscape.

With my Plein Air painting experience, this is integral to my art. It's time spent absorbing and experiencing the weather, the changes of light, the new places. I absolutely love it. I am always trying to simplify and pare back my paintings.

So there has been much benefit from spending more time in the studio and reducing the shapes and colours from the studies and my memories to create this collection of paintings.
